Eurozone inflation rose in July, although price pressures differed across the bloc. Locally, the South African Reserve Bank (SARB) kept its key repo rate unchanged at its July meeting, surprising analysts after inflation reached a recent high.

Global equities ended positively at the start of the second half of 2026, with the MSCI World Index ending the month at 0.51% month-on-month (m/m), keeping performance for global equity investors in double digits at 10.26% year-to-date (YTD), both in US dollar terms. The semiconductor cohort was the biggest contributor to July's performance. Emerging market (EM) equities struggled in July, with the MSCI EM Index ending the month at -3.03% m/m (in US dollars), as Korean chip makers weighed on the MSCI EM Index's performance. Chinese shares were the star EM performers in July, as President Xi Jinping called for accelerated tech self-reliance, positioning China as a global tech leader by 2035, while Beijing mobilised an extraordinary range of state-linked institutions to support equities. The FTSE 100 ended July in positive territory at 3.69% m/m, although this was lower than June's 0.69% m/m gain in pound sterling. The S&P 500's June losses of -0.95% m/m continued into July at -0.06% m/m in US dollars. Global bonds' June losses of -0.49% m/m continued into July at -0.21% m/m in US dollars. After outperforming in June, global property continued its gains into July at 2.67% m/m in US dollars. The local bourse ended the month positively, with the FTSE/JSE All Share Index gaining 1.18% m/m in rand terms and 0.20% m/m in US dollar terms. Although Resources ended June in negative territory at -15.93% m/m, the sector posted gains of 2.06% m/m in July. Both Property and Financials outperformed in July, at 2.30% m/m and 1.16% m/m, respectively, compared with the previous month's gains of 3.74% m/m and 2.62% m/m, respectively, in rand terms. The Industrials sector was in positive territory for July at 4.27% m/m, following June's 0.78% m/m gain. Glossary of Terms

Capital growth

Capital growth is the profit made on an investment, measured by the increase in its market value over the invested amount or cost price. It is also called capital appreciation.

Derivative strategies

A derivative is a financial instrument (like futures and options) that is derived from some other financial instrument, known as the underlying instrument. For example, the Dow Jones Industrial is an indicator of whether the stock market is going up or down.

You can 'bet' on the direction of the Dow by selling a 'futures' contract on it. This futures contract is a derivative as it derives from the Dow Index. If you think the market will go up, you will buy the Dow futures contract, and vice versa.

Diversification

This is a strategy designed to reduce risk within a portfolio by combining a variety of investments (or asset classes) such as equities, bonds, cash or property, which are unlikely to all move in the same direction. This is designed to reduce the risk (and protect against capital losses) within a portfolio. Diversification allows for more consistent performance under a wide range of economic conditions as it smooths out the impact of negative market events. The positive performance of some investments or asset classes should neutralize the negative performance of others.

Equities

An equity or share represents an institution/individual's ownership in a listed company and is the vehicle through which they are able to "share" in the profits made by that company. As the company grows, and the expectation of improved profits increases, the market price of the share will increase and this translates into a capital gain for the shareholder. Similarly, negative sentiment about the company will result in the share price falling. Shares/equities are usually considered to have the potential for the highest return of all the investment classes, but with a higher level of risk i.e. share investments have the most volatile returns over the short term. An investment in this type of asset should be viewed with a 7 to 10 year horizon.

Fixed-interest investments

Fixed interest funds invest in bonds, fixed-interest and money market instruments. Interest income is a feature of these funds and, in general, capital should remain stable. A fixed-interest investment aims to offer investors a regular income at a set interest rate, which can be fixed over a specified term. If interest rates fall, the fixed-interest investment typically becomes more valuable. Conversely if interest rates rise, the value of the investment will fall.

Fund of Funds

A "fund of funds" is an investment strategy of holding a portfolio of other investment funds rather than investing directly in stocks, bonds or other securities. This type of investing is often referred to as multi-manager investment.

Investing in a fund of funds may achieve greater diversification. The benefit of diversification is that it can reduce volatility and the overall risk in the portfolio, while maintaining returns.

Regulation 28

Regulation 28 of the Pension Funds Act sets out prudent investment limits on certain asset classes in investment funds. It applies specifically to investments in Retirement Annuities and Preservation Funds.

The allowed maximum exposures to certain asset classes is:

- 75% for equities
- 25% for property
- 45% for foreign (offshore) assets

Total Expense Ratio (TER)

This refers to the total costs associated with managing and operating an investment's administration, financial planning and servicing fees. Costs consist of management fees and expenses such as trading, legal and auditor fees and other operational expenses. The total cost of the fund is divided by the fund's total assets under management to arrive at a percentage amount, which represents the TER.
